Dear Sir:

The Township Council have undertaken to arrange with the farmers and fruit-growers for presenting a car of fruit and vegetables to the troops forming the overseas contingent at present in camp at Val Cartier.

Will you kindly let the farmers and fruit growers know through your columns that either Councillors Sutherland, Beamer, Marlow or myself will be glad if they kindly inform one of us as to the number of baskets of fruit and vegetables they can see their way to contribute, in order that we may be able to arrange for the assembling and loading of the car.

Facts and Fancies

By Frank Fairborn

Another week has passed by and finds the two greatest armies that the world has ever seen gathered together, locked in deadly conflict, at this along without either of these things.

together with a terrific shock. The Germans started the attack with a brilliant dash t hat fairly shook the foundations of the earth. The troops advanced at great speed and so ponderous was the force of the shock against the ranks of the defenders that it was like the rush of a human tidal wave. At no time since the conflict started was the desperate and terrific defence at Liege and in the surrounding country, by the Belgians, so significant in its results as it was on the morning of Saturday, Aug. 22, when the Germans made their first terrible onslaught on the allied French and British armies.

Had the Belgians not been able, by their bravery and their great fighting ability, to hold back the German advance for nearly two weeks, the French and British troops would have almost melted before the onslaught of the enormous German army like snow before an April sun-but the twoweeks saved them.

The two weeks' respite gained for the allied army, by the desperate part taken by little Belgium, has probably saved the situation f or t he French nation, or at least assisted the allies to check the rush of the Germans.

During the two weeks' respite, the French and British had entrenched themselves, had brought up their artillery, placed their men, laid their plans and got forward their ammunition and food supplies and were ready for the terrific onslaught when it came.

The battle which raged all day Saturday, all day Sunday and which is still raging at the time of this writing, is in the neighborhood just slightly south of the fameus battlefield of Waterloo, and although the battle of Water loo was a terrible struggle, yet as compared with the battle which is now raging, it was as child's play. At the battle of Waterloo it is estimated that 80,000 British troops and their allies were on one side, while Napoleon's amy numbered 100,000 more, on the other side.

The forces engaged in the terrific shock today are estimated at $00,000 German troops of the first line supported by one million reservists on one side, and 700,000 French troops of the first line and 120,000 British regulars on the other side.

With regard to field guns, artillery, machine guns, areoplanes and all other modern engines of destruction, t he battle now raging is probably one hundred times as well equipped with armaments of destruction as were the contenders at the battle of Waterloo.

During the past week, events have been moving very rapidly, not only at the seat of war but in the whole world

The Germans pressed steadily forward westerly, through Belgium. After passing Liege they first invested and captured Louvain. the Belgian army falling back after making a brilliant stand and doing great destruction to the advancing a rmy. From Louvain the German army marched on Brussels, a beautiful city with a population greater than that of the city of Toronto.

In order to save the city from destruction and its people from death and Township. Carried. disaster, the seat of Government was removed to Antwerp and the Belgian army retired to the same city without making a fight.

Get mans invested, surrounded and passed the City of Brussels without doing it any great injury.

In the meantime, the City of Antwerp, which is one of the finest fortified cities in Europe, was still more strongly fortified and every precaution fied cities in Europe, was still more strongly lottined and in the river, was taken to withstand an attack or siege. This city is built on a fine river, about sixty miles south-east of the English channel and can be approached by about sixty miles south-east of the English channel and can be approached by Mr. Copeland, seconded steamers, carrying either food, soldiers or ammunition and is, therefore, in a position to stand an indefinite siege and put up a desperate fight against an

It is thought by some experts that there are more soldiers in Antwerp than the Germans anticipate and that a sortie from the city may at any time take place against the flank or the rear of the enemy. When the German army is engaged with the allies, there is no doubt that a sortie from Antwerp could work great disaster in the rear. In the meantime, the allies were perfecting their defences, digging trenches, placing their field pieces, bringing up their ammunition and food supplies and in every way getting ready to encounter the horde of Germans which were then approaching. While the Germans were marching westward t hrough Belgium, the allied armies of France and Great Britain were preparing for their reception in the south of Belgium.

The French army corps which have been operating in Alsace and Lorraine were making history. The French army corps operating in Alsace met with steady success and drove the Germans back gradually, killing them in great numbers, taking many prisoners and much ammunition, guns and food. This army corps is not far from the fortified city of Strassburg, on the Rhine, and it is their intention, in due time, to attack that city.

The army corps operating in Loraine, while at first successful, met with reverses last week and was c ompelled to retire in face of overwhelming

There has been no fresh fighting in either place for the past few days.

On the eastern frontier of Germany and Austria, events are happening thick and fast. Russia is marching into Austria and also into Germany and according to appearances is meeting with success at every encounter.

The German corps engaged on the eastern frontier of Germany, consist of the troops of the second line and reservists and although they are putting up a desperate fight, they have been driven back on every occasion by the Russians and have lost many men in killed, wounded and prisoners, besides considerable quantities of guns, ammunition and food. In Austria the Russian army is also making good progress, so that it will not be long until the German War Lord will have to turn his attention more seriously to the eastern frontier than he has done in the past few weeks.

Little Servia is still covering itself with glory. In a terrific battle on the River Drina last week, it defeated an immense Austrian army and killed 20,000 soldiers besides taking a great number of prisoners and a large amount of war material.

The rout of the Austrians was complete, many of them being driven into the river and drowned, while others fled helter-skelter to the hills; pursued by the Servians who are all veteran warriors, fresh from the of success against the Turks a year ago.

In Asia events are also moving rapidly. Germany refused to give a satisfactory reply to an ultimatum from Japan and on Sunday, Aug. 23, Japan declared w ar against Germany and ordered its fleet and army to move.

Italy has stood out neutral, but present indications are that within short time it will declare war against Austria and declare itself an ally France and Great Britain.

There has been a tendency in some of the cities for the people to lay by stores of some of the necessities of life, such as sugar, flour and tea, in the fear that there might be a scarcity of these things later on, on account of the

While I believe in thrift, prudence and ferethought, yet I think it is wrong in a case of this kind for people who are well off to raise the price of the necessities of life by buying unusual quantities, in order that they may make themselves safe, to the detriment of the whole community.

The rich man is able to buy and has forethought and prudence enough to buy, but the poor man very often is unable to buy and consequently cannot take advantage of his own forethought and prodence. The result is that the rich man, by buying in excessive quantities, forces the market price up and the poor man has to pay extortionate prices when he is least able to do so.

I hope htat Canadians will show their localty, not only to their country, by contributions of their men and means towards assisting the Motherland in GRIMSBY her tremendous fight, but that they will show their loyalty to their fellow men by refraining from doing anything that would work to t he detriment of the community a nd especially the poor of the community.

If there is going to be a famine, let us all suffer through it equally, and never let it be said that while th e poor were starving the rich men were living on t he fat of the land.

There was a t endency, a week or two are, for t he well-to-do people in the cities to rush and buy unusual amounts of flour, sugar, cured meats, tea and other staple commodities. The consequence was that the market was forced up rapidly, to the detriment of trade and to the detriment of things in general.

There is no possible chance that there could be any famine in wheat. vegetables, or meats in Canada, because Canada will not only produce all of these things within herself, but she can cally get an abundance of them from the United States, if required.

If there does become a famine in sugar or tea we can quite e asily get

The two opposing armies, consisting of 1,800,000 German troops on the citizen do his share to make conditions better instead of worse. Let every one side and 700,000 French and 120,000 British on the other side, came we will only have to suffer for our real troubles and not from artificial

> THE WAR-LORD OF EUROPE Oh! The War-Lord of Europe beware of the day When the allies will meet you in battle array. For the fields lay covered with dead in my sight, And your legions of battle are scattered in fight.

Like a soothless insulter you attacked Belgium Town, No respect for your treaties, nor her neutral ground; With your armies you battled, week in and week out, But the heroes of Belgium turned your legions to rout.

The Lion is awakened-beware of her paw. When she raises in anger to smite at your law; Like a snowllake in furnace before the great heat, Your armies in battle will melt and retreat.

Like a coward in a corner, watching his chance, Your navy is hidden as with an avalanche; While Britain's fleet, drawn in battle array. All manned with her heroes dares you out in the bay.

To the east of your Empire, you challenged the Bear To come out of his slumber and fight if he dared,— Though slow in accepting, he's now out for fight, And woe to the Kuiser when he strikes with his might.

To the west of your Empire, the Republic of France You have dared like the others in your ignorance, But woe to your legions the day they will meet— The trio of nations with their heroes to beat.

You may laugh, proud Kalser, my vision to scorn, Thou War-Lord of Europe, thy plume shall be torn; And to death and captivity thou shall be led, With the trio of nations, who for liberty bled.

THE WAR SONG

By A. J. Davies. (To be sung to the air, "The Wearin' of the Green.") O, Wilhelm dear, and did your hear, The news that's going round? Old England's lion is at last

Awake to battle's sound, And growling he's advancing Like a thundercloud afar, You'd better run back home again, And hide behind your ma. For though your talk is fine and big. And your whiskers awe-inspiring. Big talk will not a battle win,

Or whiskers aid the firing. So. Wilhelm dear, just listen here, While this advice we tender, It is not wise to play with fire, Unless outside the fender.

O, Willie, you've incurred the wrath Of every power that counts, And you'll be called upon to square Some tidy-sized accounts. The French, the Russians and the

Will all be at your throat, And every Christian nation now Is out to get your goat. For Bill, you know, you don't fight

On this we all agree, And if you don't clim down a piece, You'll soon be up a tree. And every British subject, At home and 'cross the sea,

Will rally round the good old flag. To wipe out Germany.

We print herewith the letters receiv ed from these two places and the. explanations.

Ottawa, Aug. 17, 1914 Mr. J. W. Weeks, Abingdon, Ont.

Dear Sir:- I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your letter of August 14, with the enclosure of infested potato stalk which has been transferred to this Branch from the Experimental Farm.

The insect is the caterpillar of the Stalk Borer, Papalpema Nitella, 1 bores in various plants such as potatoes, tomatoes, corn and in numbers of weeds, including rag-weed. The weeds are probably its normal food plants and; the destruction of weeds during the summer to destroy the con tained caterpillars is a necessary method of control. The weeds should be burned or baried to kill the calerpillars. On small patches of potatoes the infested vines should be removed and burned, or buried so the contained caterpillars will be destroyed Fall ploughing is of some benefit.

Nothing can be done, of course, for the plants already infested. These insects are usually controlled by par asites and seldom spread over a large area. Clean culture and fall ploughing will probably prevent any serious loss in the future.

I have the houour to be, Sir, Your obedient servant. C. Gordon Hunter,

ST. BONIPACE DE SHAWINIGAN, QUE.

Feb. 3rd. 1914. "It is a pleasure to me to inform you that after suffering from Chronic Constipation for 21/2 years, I have been cured by "Fruit-a-tives". Some one advised me to take "Fruit-a-tives" and at once I felt a great improvement. After had taken four or five boxes, I realized that I was completely cured and what made me glad, also, was that they were acting gently, causing no pain whatever to the bowels. All those who suffer with Chronic Constipation should follow my example and take "Fruit-a-tives" for they are the medicine that cures".

MUTE, INGLORIOUS WELLINGTONS

Abner Biggs would take them nations, an' he'd tell 'em certain things That would make 'em see the folly of them emperors and kings. If he just could go to Europe, it would not be long before Everybody stopped their fightin' and put by all thoughts o' war. He allows that he would learn 'em that this rumpus is a crime, But I guess he'll never do it, for his meals take too much time.

Henry Hanks says if this country just would do the thing t hat's right It would take about an hour for to stop t his awful fight. He has made a plan of action for our government to take That would settle things in Europe in about a half a shake. He's explained his method to us, and it's sensible and sound; But he ain't got time to work it; he's too busy settin' round.

Aleck Judson says that nothin' ever makes him quite as sore As the European ign'rance of the simple art of war. He has drawed us maps to show us how, if he was over there, He'd run one side or the other and he'd stop this fool affair. With one regiment of soldiers he could break up all the row, But he cannot go an' do it; he's too busy tellin' how.

IS MY MOTHER CALLING! Say, is my mother calling? Is it her voice I hear Vibrating over the water, Sounding out loud and clear? Do I not feel her heart beat, Pulsate through distant space? Do I not catch a vision Of her anxious, time-worn face?

Say, is my mother calling With the cry of a stricken soul? Is he tired of doing the housework While her children play at school? Is she wearled of bearing the burden While I stand idly by Of giving her lambs to the slaughter, Of giving her sons to die?

Say, is my mother calling, As she did from the lone Transvani Must she drink from this cup unnided, Her bitterness mingled with gall? Or shall we, as then, remember We are all of one blood, one race, And he who would injure my mother, Slaps ber daughter in the face?

My little sister, New Zenland, Feels the sting of her mother's pain And speaks with the tongue of Dreadnought,

And dares them to do it again. Australia is trimming her gun sights, Storing her bunkers with coal; She has heard the cry of mother: It has burned in her very soul.

ON A WAR FOOTING

CANADA is going to find out with-in the next few months, what it means to be "on a war footing."

Just what it means depends largely on how we meet the situation. It might mean continued dulness, depression, "hard times"---if we were to persist in thinking and talking "hard times."

It may, just as reasonably, mean prosperity---if we keep our heads and go after business in the right soirit of aggressiveness.

We might well follow the lead set us by some of our large industrial concerns.

An excellent example is furnished by our three leading automobile manufacturers.

One-making a high-priced car -has given instructions for the most aggressive selling campaign the company has ever undertaken; backed up by a big campaign of advertising in the newspapers.

Another, who makes various-priced cars of high quality, had a large announcement of 1915 models in a long list of papers the very week after war was declared.

A third-a Canadian branch factory of a United States concern making a popular-price car, is announcing an important price change-and taking larger space than ever before in Canadian newspapers to tell the story.

And this, be it noted, is the attitude of the three big men in an industry that the pessimists have been predicting would be seriously affected by the war. Their unshaken confidence, their-greater-than-ever determination to market successfully a class of product that is always hard to sell, should be an inspiration to the rest of our industries. These three manufactures have tested advertising, and have confidence in its efficiency in stimulating business in times of war as well as in times of peace.

Instead of retrenching, the business men of Canada may well emulate the action of the motor car manufacturers, and go out after business in the most aggressive way possible.
